The wrapping space (distance from text) from the frame was being cut in half with each round-trip. That should not be happening of course. On each round-trip, you can clearly see more text showing up on page 1.