Word 15 has a bunch of improvements to the commenting scenario. In addition to an improved look and feel, you now have the ability to reply to comments and to mark them as “done.” One of the coolest things is that Word shows you a lot more information about who authored a comment. To try it out you can install the Office Dogfood Manager - just make sure your User Name in Word Options is the same as your name on Exchange.