

Here is a picture of the subflow. You define the input schema on the subflow input node and just make sure to have a subflow output node at the end

